

John Helmert is a father of four, Marine Corps veteran, and a native of Gulfport. Because he has an abrasive personality, he has had the opportunity to work just about everywhere in Mississippi. With almost two decades of public defending, he has had stops in Tupelo, Meridian, Greenville, Jackson, and Gulfport. He also worked in the Capital Defense division of the Office of the State Public Defender. He is currently working as an Assistant Public Defender in Harrison County and hopes to stay employed for a while because there aren't many places he can go without having to take another bar exam. He graduated from Ole Miss Law School in 2003, so he's a 'real lawyer.